

This issue of the Johns Hopkins APL Technical Digest is a testament to the diverse contributions the Laboratory makes to solving critical challenges. The issue covers technical topics ranging from ballistic missile defense system optimization and unmanned underwater vehicle testing to nuclear radiation source detection, remote sensing, and the development of a model and measurement techniques for leaf reflectivity with global implications for environmental assessment.